WARNING:

To the residents and users of the Fanny Bay Waterworks

Please be advised. Currently we are under water restrictions, and we have asked that ALL users refrain from ANY unnecessary water usage which includes / but not limited to washing vehicles, cleaning driveways or buildings and only minimal hand watering of gardens on even or odd days as corresponds with your home address.

At this point our readings have been up approximately 25% over nonpeak weekly averages and daily use up a whopping 100% in the past few days. The pumps have been running until 4am - 5am in last few days to replenish the water storage tank ... clearly this level of use is unsustainable and combined with the seasonal low well levels could create a water crisis. We feel it URGENT at this point to make ALL users aware of the current use levels in hopes they take this issue seriously and make the necessary changes to conserve water!

We would also request that homeowners do a basic test of their own systems. The test can be conducted very simply by turning off ALL water in your home / outbuildings and simply check your meter to insure there is no water usage. If the meter is rotating it could be an indication that something has been left running or you have a leak. This is a simple test that should be conducted annually as a regular home maintenance item.

PLEASE DO YOUR PART TO CONSERVE!
